ZIMMERMAN'S

Steam Cooking Apparatus A DINNER COOKED

FOR 20 PERSONS Over One Hole of the Stove or Range. The Cooking Miracle of the Age! FOWL, MEATS, CABBAGE, ONIONS, POTATOES, PUDDINGS BREAD, &c., &c.,

All cooked together without slightest exchange of flavor. The house purged of offensive smells. A child can take care of it. Ready for instant use. CHEAP SIMPLE! ECONOMICAL This wonderful invention is attracting wide-spread attention. It is a simple device; made of this, comprising three sections, which can be used together or separately. The water which steams the food is rapidly discipled into a delicions soup. The 'Mirade' in fact, together with cabbage, onlone, turnips, potatoes, &c., &c., &c., and steaming two or three kinds of puddings at the same time—without the elightest change of flavor. It is a philosophical result which astonishes all, and has given the steamer a popularity never equalied by any cooking invention. Every family should have one. No family can afford to be without it. It will pay for itself in a very short time.

Not a tree nor shrub is anywhere to be seen; not a farm house nor anything to relieve the perfect monotony, saye now and then a herd of antelopes scampering in terror from the snorting iron-horse or a community of prairie dogs standing erect on their little mounds and barking at the train as it dashes through their village. On the south side of the river is the old wagon road formerly used by the government and western bound immigrants. It is now but little used, and here and there may be seen the ruins of the adobe ranches, where reighters were wont to stop and refresh the inner man. In going up the valley I saw one train of fifty wagons—said to be a Mormon train—bound westward on this road, the farther up the valley you go, the poorer the soil, and the shorter the grass becomes. At Cheyenne—515 miles from Omaha—nothing but sand and gravel, thinly covered with grass about an inch long. Indeed, this whole Platte Valley, except five or six miles of the lower part of it, is utterly worthless as a farming region. Fremont, Columbus, North Platts and Fort Rearney are the most important stations on the Road between Omaha and Cheyenne. At all stations I saw a squad of soldiers—reminding me; of rebelling to describe the places above named, At all other stopping places there is nothing to be seen except the squad of soldiers, the station house, the water trank (into which the water is pumped by a wind mill,) a wood pile, and two or there "groceies and groggeries.) The end of the track from which I write is over 50 miles northwest of Laramie, and is in a region of country that is utterly worthless. Nothing grows here but a shrub called sagebush. The water is unfit, for man or beast on account of its alkaline properties; but not withstanding the workmen are compelled to use it. The effects of drinking the water here is plainly visible on every man's face. It causes the cutitle of the face, particularly of the nose, to slough off; hence every man who has been here a several weeks has a scaly face. The outer skin cracks and curls up, giving to the individual a very unsightly appearance.

This alkaline water is used here in the construction engines, because no

the construction engines, because no other can be had, but it causes great trouble; it foams and corrodes the boil-er. The water of the condensed steam falling upon the engine evaporates and leaves the iron horse incrusted in a white salt which they here call sala-ratus. There are about two hundred ratus. There are about two hundred men and seventy-five mule teams em-ployed here in laying the ties and ralls. The ties are cedar and are obtained on the mountain sides and hauled over The ties are cedar and are obtained on the mountain sides and hauled over the plains, a distance of twenty or thirty miles, to the road at points east of here. They are loaded on cars and erun forward to the end of the track. They are then loaded on wagons and hauled half a mile ahead where a gang of men lay them on the road-bed. The ralls are transferred, near the terminus, to trucks, to each of which a horse is at tached if the grade is up hill. As soon as the truck is drawn to the end of the track, eight men seize a rall on each side, draw them forward and drop them as near the right place as possible; they are then quickly adjusted and spiked at the ends. The horse, walking at the side of the track, is then started and the truck moved forward the length of a rail. It is followed by two men whose business it is to drop the spikes. Then come a gang of spikers who drive the spikes home with a tap and only two strokes of their fron mauls. The whole thing is well systematized and the work goes on as regularly and werfeelty as machinery. Every man

Tom Corwin on Noah's Family.

Tom Corwin on Noah's Family.

Hon, Tom Corwin used to tell the following story:

Jeff. Davis has the bearing and address of a Southern gentleman, but has not the mental grasp of a statesman. He is shallow and never originated any great measure. I remember the first speech he made in Congress. It was on the slavery question. He dwelt at length on the accounts of Ham, Hagar and Onesimus, and to his own satisfaction, at least, proved American slavery had divine sanction. Well, like myself, he liked a glass of wine, and he and I met a few minutes after the debate in a saloon. Said I: "Davis, do you believe that Ham was a nigger?" "Yes," was the reply. "And Shem, one of those red fellows, with long black hair and high cheek bones like some of the red fellows you find out on the prairie?" Said he: "Yes, I do," "And Japheth had regular features and fair complexion, like members of Congress, for instance, with perhaps some exceptions?" (pointing to myself). The reply being in the affirmative, I remarked: "You give a very poor opinion of Mrs. Noah. Such a lady would soon lose caste on Turtle Creek."

National Republican Platform.

The National Union Republican party of the United States assembled in National Convention in the City of Chicago on the 20th day of May, 1898, make the following declaration of principles:

1. We congramulate the country on the assured success of the reconstruction policy of Congress as evinced by the adoption in a majority of the States is tely in rebellion of Constitutions securing equal city and political rights to all; and regard it as the unity of the Government to statain these Constitutions and prevent the people of such States from being remitted to a state of anarchy or military rule.

the letter, but the spirit of the laws under which it was contracted.

4. It is due to the labor of the nation that inxation should be equalized and reduced as rapidly as national faith will permit.

5. The national debt, contracted as it has been for the, preservation of the Union for all time to come, should be extended over a fair period for redemption, and it is the duty of Congress to reduce the rate of interest thereon whenever it can honesity be done.

6. That the best policy to dimmish our burden of debt is so to improve our credit that expitalists will seek to lend us money at lower rates of interest to lend us money at lower must continue to pay, so long as repudiation, partial or total, open or covert, is threatened or suspected.

Andrew Johnson, call loudly for radical reform.

8. We profoundly deplore the untimely and tragic death of Abraham Lincoln, and regret the accession of Andrew Johnson to the Presidency, who has acted treacherously to the people who elected him and the cause he was pledged to support; has usurped high legislative and junicial functions; has remained to execute the laws; has used his high office to induce other officers to violate the laws; has employed his executive power to render insecure the lives, property, peace, liberty and life of the clitzen; has abused the pardoning power; has denounced the National Legislature as unconstitutional; has pensistent and habitually resisted by every means in his power, every proper attempt at the reconstruction of the states lately in rebelion; has perverted the public patronage into an engine of wholesale corruption, and has been justly impeached for high crimes and misdemennors, and properly pronounced guilty thereof by the votes of thirty-five senators.

Proof of our statement that we have MADE A COMPLETE

REVOLUTION IN TRADE,

mullitude of SMALL CONCERNS to imitate our club system, and some by advertising the presents they will give to agents, seek, unsuccessfully, to divert some of our business to themselves. We make this announcement simply to inform the public that it will be for their interest to patronize our house, as we still continue to give better goods and greater inducements to agents than any other concern in the business.

We sell every description of DRY AND FANCY GOODS, PLATED WARE, JEWELRY, WATCHES, SEWING MACHINES, &C., &C., for the uniform price of ONE DOLLAR. Circulars sent to any address free.
